Combined Certificate IV in Security and Risk Management (PRS40103) and Certificate IV in Frontline Management (PRS50103)

ft rpl

Gain qualifications in the exciting field of security and risk management with two innovative new programs. These qualifications match core competencies from the new Asset Security and Business Services training packages with selected elective competencies to produce customised programs that are contemporary and cost effective. Successful participants of this dual program will earn a qualification in both Security/Risk Management and Frontline Management. The Certificate IV in Security and Risk Management is designed to develop competence in risk assessment and risk management methodologies. Whilst the primary focus is security-related risk, the process, skills and knowledge acquired are easily transferable to all business activities.

The program has been re-designed by industry to align very closely with the Frontline Management discipline. Frontline Management has been designed to assist businesses to raise the performance of their frontline managers. It supports development across a range of management competencies in the workplace.
